Dear Parent/Carer

I am writing to inform you about the Wicked Young Writer Awards, an exciting opportunity on offer to your son/daughter. This is a national writing competition, and the prizes include tickets to the London production of Wicked with a VIP tour, as well as an individual prize £50 worth of books and a school prize of £100 for the library. If the students are one of the 120 writers selected for the final, they will also be invited to a special prize giving ceremony in London.

Students have been preparing for this competition as part of the English after school club on Mondays. They have written fiction pieces (maximum length 750 words), on any subject of their choice. The final deadline for these pieces is Friday 3 March.

Every student entering must have permission from a parent/guardian, and contact numbers will also be required. I would be grateful if you could return the attached reply slip by Friday 3 March. No student can be entered into the competition without this parental consent.

If you have further questions about the competition, please do not hesitate to contact me.
